The Radio Reading Network of Maryland is an independent non-profit organization which serves persons who are either visually or physically impaired to the degree that they are unable to read for themselves. Nearly seventy Volunteers read today's newspapers and magazines today. This unique service is broadcast on sub-carriers of WBJC in Baltimore, WFWM in Frostburg and WESM in Princess Anne.

Programs are heard by means of a special receiver available through the Radio Reading Network. There is an annual fee of $50 payable in two installments. However, in a case of need, the fee can be waived.

A schedule of weekly programs is sent to each Listener on the mailing list.

For daily program information . . . to apply for a receiver . . . to volunteer as a Reader . . . or to contribute, call the Radio Reading Network of Maryland at 410-779-4969. Outside the Baltimore area, call 1-800-455-5605.
